Must be able to balance the demands of varying workload responsibilities and deadlines.

Physical Requirements and Maximum Entry Age:

The duties of probation officers require the investigation and management of alleged criminal offenders or convicted offenders who present physical danger to officers and to the public. In the supervision, treatment, and control of these offenders, these duties require moderate to arduous physical exercise, including prolonged periods of walking and standing, physical dexterity and coordination necessary to operate a firearm, and use of self-defense tactics. On a daily basis, officers face unusual and physical stress because they are subject to danger and possible harm during frequent, direct contact with individuals who are suspected or convicted of committing federal offenses.

In order to be included under federal law enforcement officer provisions, an individual would have to meet "maximum entry age" provisions as follows: As provided for in the Federal Employees' Retirement Act of 1986 (hazardous duty provisions), first time appointees to positions covered under law enforcement officer retirement provisions must not have reached their 37th birthday at the time of appointment. The position allows for retirement at age 50 with 20 years of service and mandatory retirement at the age of 57.

For an applicant with previous federal law enforcement officer experience under the Civil Service Retirement System (CSRS) or Federal Employees' Retirement System (FERS) and either a subsequent break in service or intervening service in a non-law enforcement officer position, the maximum entry age is increased by adding the number of years of previous law enforcement experience to 37. For example, for a candidate with five years of creditable previous federal law enforcement experience, the maximum entry age would be 42.

Medical Examination, Background Investigations and Drug Screening:

Prior to appointment, all selected candidates for appointment as a probation officer will be required to successfully complete a medical examination, and drug screening. Upon successful completion of the medical examination and drug screening, the selectee may then be appointed provisionally and undergo a complete 10-year OPM background investigation, pending a favorable suitability determination by the court. In addition, as conditions of employment, incumbent will be subject to ongoing random drug screening, updated background investigations every five years and, as deemed necessary by management for reasonable cause, may be subject to subsequent fitness-for-duty evaluations. The medical requirements and the essential job functions derived from the medical guidelines for probation officers, pretrial services officer, and officer assistants are available for public review at <http://www.uscourts.gov>

The successful candidate will be required to participate in a four (4) week National Training Academy at the Federal Law Enforcement Training Center (FLETC) program located in Charleston, South Carolina.
